BIGELOW IS CHARGED WITH USURPATION OF POWER IN CONVENTION

Fight is On by Constitution Makers Over Manner of Choosing Permanent Committees

WARM DEBATE MARKS SECOND DAY'S SESSION

Resolution Asking for Committee to Make Selections Meets With Opposition---Would Insure Power of Convention President It is Charged.

Columbus, Jan. 10.—A fight over the means of choosing the permanent committees tied up the Ohio constitutional convention at its early session today and the indications at the noon recess were that the debate was so far from finished that a vote might not be reached.

The debate started at once after the meeting had been called to order and in the ensuing two hours of speaking charges that the new president had assumed a dictatorial attitude were made by Delegate Lanston. The disagreement took shape after Delegate Hoskins introduced a resolution calling for a committee of seven men appointed by President Bigelow and including him to consider and report on rules for the convention.

This, it was charged, would insure the acceptance of the so-called "Doty rules," which provide for the president to appoint all standing committees. Delegate Lanston raised the question of consideration on a plan to adopt rules and name committees. "The committees should not even be suspected of being a matter for bargaining," he said. "We should stand on a higher plane of statesmanship than making the committees a matter of barter."

Delegate Peck of Cincinnati moved the adoption of the resolution. Lanston insisted on his question of consideration and was ruled down by President Bigelow. Delegate Doty was recognized after Mr. Peck and Mr. Lanston again insisted on his question of consideration.

"The president will rule there are no rules," said the chairman. Delegate Fess of Green county appealed from the ruling and was again interrupted by Lanston, who asked his question of consideration. "This is a question of privilege and in his refusal to answer it, we have discovered a new czar. His ruling that there are no rules is dictatorial and an usurpation of power and might."

Declaring that legislative bodies had always been governed by political connections, Delegate Harris of Hamilton county urged that such conditions be not permitted to creep into the constitutional convention. He pleaded for the adoption of a resolution providing for a committee on rules by the president.

Henry B. Elson of Athens county urged a committee on committees, stating: "If the amendment to the original resolution is not adopted, it will be a reactionary step." Robert C. Cuyahoga county urged the Doty resolution for a committee appointed by the chairman, on the theory that "it was a real, popular procedure, for the reason," he explained, "that it concentrated the responsibility where the delegates could see that fairness was done."

GOVERNOR HARMON DENIES HE OBJECTED TO BRYAN

Columbus, Jan. 10.—Governor Harmon yesterday denied the truth of an often-repeated story, purporting to give his personal unfavorable opinion of William Jennings Bryan. His attention was called to a statement in an editorial in the Indianapolis Star that during Mr. Bryan's last campaign "a young daughter of Governor Harmon, not yet trained in the importance of not repeating her father's remarks made in the seclusion of the domestic circle, wrote to her dearest girl friend, a Texas miss, that papa hoped for Mr. Bryan's defeat because it would make his own presidential prospects brighter."

The governor said regarding this: "I heard of this once before, but thought it too absurd to notice. I cannot pass it by now that it finds a place in the editorial column of a paper of good standing. "The story is not only absolutely false, but is without a fragment of truth, even in its circumstances."

Columbus, O., Jan. 10.—They're off. With Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, leading exponent of government directly by the people, at their head, and Prof. C. B. Galbreath, former State Librarian, recording their daily activities, the delegates to the Fourth Constitutional Convention entered today upon the serious work of framing the new charter.

With a supreme court justice looking on from the high seat of the speaker, and monster bouquets banked in every available spot in the hall of the House of Representatives, with corridors and galleries jammed and every delegate save two in his seat, the session opened in an atmosphere that was truly festive.

Rev. Bigelow, immediately upon his election, assured every delegate present that the hatchet as buried, that all contention has disappeared and that it remains only for them to work together toward a common end. And by them he was similarly assured.

The fight on the convention floor which resulted in the election of Rev. Bigelow lasted two hours and required 11 ballots, and is admitted to be unparalleled in the political history of the state.

The array of apparently divergent forces which were enlisted in the support of Rev. Bigelow precipitated a confusion which manifested itself in the voting even more than it had in the preliminary canvasses, and the victory belonged to no man until these forces commenced to coalesce and simplify themselves in the last three ballots.

In spite of the claims by the Bigelow party that they would not more than 60 votes on the first ballot, their strength found its limit with 54 which was six less than necessary to elect.

Certain defeat seemed to stare Rev. Bigelow in the face. It had been taken for granted, that much of his strength would leave him on the first ballot, but before the secretary could again call the roll there was a manifest tightening in the lines of defense and where some votes were lost others were gained, so that it never fell far below the high water mark set on the first test.

On the contrary, the strength of Judge Dwyer, which had been expected to grow, commenced to decline after the second ballot. Casting complimentary votes for one another, Judge Norris, and Rev. Bigelow watched the roll call closely.

On the ninth ballot the state administration, which has favored the election of Rev. Bigelow from the start threw its final weight of its influence into the balance, and to it on the eleventh ballot was added the open effort of the organized liberal forces, throwing three more votes to "1. My three daughters all married and left home long before the 1908 campaign.

"2. Not one of them ever had a girl or woman friend in Texas.
"3. I have two granddaughters, but one of them was 10 months and the other 6 years old in 1908.
"4. Neither in the family circle nor elsewhere did I ever make the statement mentioned nor one of like import. On the contrary during the campaign of 1908 I was on the ticket with Mr. Bryan, appeared with him and with Mr. Kern on the stump, and many times in my speeches said that it was not very important that I be elected governor, but it was important that Bryan and Kern be elected, and if it would help their cause I would willingly be defeated. I think I said this once when I spoke with Mr. Kern.
"This story would make me both a liar and hypocrite and, with all my faults, I have never been either."

Bigelow and carrying him over with two votes to spare. Representatives of the liquor interests do not openly admit their activity in behalf of Rev. Bigelow, but the rapidly growing strength of D. H.

HERBERT S. BIGELOW

Anderson of Youngstown, who had gained 27 votes in the 11 ballots and bade fair to be elected by a consolidation of all the forces opposed to Rev. Bigelow, forced them to do it.

Mr. Anderson is by his own statements a radical dry, and his work as president of the convention according to current reports, would have been objectionable to the liberal element.

At one time in the voting a stampede to the standard of President S. D. Fess, of Antioch college a noted platform speaker, was threatened, and averted only by a positive statement from Fess himself that he could not permit the use of his name, since he intended to work entirely from the floor of the convention.

The 16 votes which had registered themselves for him, even though his name had not been placed in nomination, then redistributed themselves among the other candidates the most effective support going ultimately to Rev. Bigelow.

Amusement for the convention was furnished by Delegate Harry Thomas of Cleveland, who is the "standpat" Socialist. Hlon Moore, the other Socialist in the convention "inspired" gave notice that he would not be guided by his party instructions, and voted for Rev. Bigelow throughout.

Mr. Thomas, however, obeyed party instructions and 11 times voted for himself for president. Eleven times the convention had its laugh but at the end the delegates were forced to congratulate Mr. Thomas because "his strength never wavered for an instant and in the end he had as many votes as at the start."

Promptly at 10 o'clock W. W. Stokes, of Dayton, called the convention to order and announced that by virtue of the law Judge Dennis Dwyer of this city, would preside as temporary chairman because he was the oldest man in the convention.

Judge Caleb L. Norris of Marion, and Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, of Cincinnati, were appointed to escort Judge Dwyer to his seat. Introducing him to the assembly, Rev. Bigelow asserted that Judge Dwyer's ripe years and lovable personality would eminently qualify him for the work which was to be done.

Chief Justice Davis of the Ohio Supreme Court, was then escorted to the seat beside Judge Dwyer, and Delegate McClelland of Knox County, was called upon for a prayer.

The galleries and side aisles were filled to the point of suffocation with spectators. The galleries were gay with the costumes of wives and daughters of delegates who had come to see the opening work of the convention which would consume all the energies of husband and father for many months to come.

The speaker's desk was banked with complimentary bouquets presented to Judge Dwyer by admiring friends and delegates, some of the pieces being very elaborate in design.

Desks of the delegates themselves were gay with flowers, and each man wore at his buttonhole a flower clipped from one of the numerous bouquets in the room.

Having been escorted to his seat, Judge Dwyer in an introductory address interested the delegates with his reminiscences of the condition of Ohio and the United States when the constitution of 1851 was framed.

Pointing out present conditions in contrast with this utter lack of development, Judge Dwyer urged upon his colleagues the importance of their work.

Closing his speech he declared that by common consent Fred Blankner, who has been an attaché of every legislative gathering in Ohio for 56 years, would serve as temporary sergeant-at-arms of the convention until a permanent sergeant had been elected. This announcement was greeted by cheers and Mr. Blankner was forced to show himself and acknowledge the ovation.

Delegate Lambert of Ashtabula county, was made temporary secretary, while Clerk Charles Kemple of the House of Representatives, was made his assistant.

Credentials Looked Into. Proceeding then to receive and examine the credentials of the delegates the secretary pronounced all of them to be in proper form, and Justice Davis administered the oath of office.

E. W. Doty, of Cleveland, then moved that the convention proceed forthwith to the election of a president. This was carried without dissent and the roll called for nominations.

President Bigelow will have E. W. Hughes, assistant clerk of the House of Representatives, sit beside him for the first days of the convention and give him the benefit of his large fund of information regarding parliamentary law, in which Mr. Hughes is considered an expert.

Herbert S. Bigelow was fairly swamped last night with messages of congratulation from friends out in the state.

Asked by interviewers what, above all other things, he would write into the constitution, he said:

"First of all, the initiative and referendum.

"Second, some form of law that will insure to the cities a greater voice in their own government—some provision that would leave them free to choose the commission form of government if they wished, or some other form that seemed better.

"Third, I would provide for the short ballot, so as to simplify the elections.

"Fourth, I would require the Supreme court to give a written decision in practically every case and to require a unanimous, or at least all but a unanimous, concurrence of that court to pronounce any law unconstitutional.

"I am not sure that I should favor the recall, particularly as it applies to Judges. Neither am I sure that anything should be written into the constitution regarding taxation. The people generally, I find, are pretty well satisfied with the one-per-cent law. It might be wise to give that a fair trial before suggesting anything different."

Mother Drinks With Men While Child Shivers in Cold

Mt. Vernon, Jan. 10.—Juvenile court officials are investigating a case of alleged delinquency on the part of a Mt. Vernon mother. Monday night, a boy aged 6 years appeared at the home of Probate Judge Berry and told a story of having been driven from his home by his mother while a number of men and women were enjoying a beer party. The night was bitter cold and the judge was compelled to find lodging for the little one for the night. Arrests may follow.

PRESIDENT SUN LEADS BIG ARMY AGAINST MANCHUS

San Francisco, Jan. 10.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen, president of the Chinese republic, personally will lead an army of 100,000 soldiers against the Manchus in Peking. This announcement was contained in a cable message received here today. The troops already mobilized at Nanking will be part of the attacking army.

FIREMEN THROW WATER ALL NIGHT AT GOTHAM FIRE

New York, Jan. 10.—A white hot furnace still glowed in the cellar of the destroyed Equitable building, resisting all efforts of the firemen to drown it out. All night long under the glare of three searchlights from the Singer tower ice covered firemen poured in streams from 20 nozzles. Until the flames are totally extinguished it will be impossible to reach the securities and papers valued at $1,500,000 in the vaults. A rigid police line is maintained on all sides of the burning building. The official police blotter gives 6 dead, 2 missing, and 23 injured as the result of the fire. Most of the 177 tenants of the burned building are established in new quarters.

NEW YORK POLICE RAID CHINATOWN

New York, Jan. 10.—More than 200 Chinese are under arrest here today as the result of an invasion of Chinatown last night by a party of 125 policemen. The raid is the first open move against gambling and betting besides the arrest of the Chinamen the destruction of a score of dingy gambling dens. The invading army was led by a young Japanese.

FIVE BURN TO DEATH WHEN HOME BURNS

Notre Dame, Quebec, Jan. 10.—Five persons, a man and four children, were burned to death early today when fire destroyed the residence of Joseph Desroches. Desroches was awakened by smoke and carried his sleeping wife out. She awakened and rushed back into the house for the children but was rescued by neighbors after she had been so badly burned she will die. It was impossible to rescue the four children and a man servant.

CARNEGIE WAS WITNESS BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE

Washington, Jan. 10.—Andrew Carnegie, was an involuntary witness today before the House committee probing the affairs of the United States Steel corporation. Mr. Carnegie, who was first requested to appear and upon declining the invitation was peremptorily summoned to Washington was wanted to elucidate the details of the organization and operation of the "steel trust" and its domination of an industry in which he was for so many years a prominent figure.

SUMMIT CO. TOWN HAS $50,000 BLAZE

Akron, Jan. 10.—Fire from an overheated furnace caused a $50,000 fire loss at Hammond's Corner, O., today, when the general store of Seigel Whitecraft, his house and barn were destroyed. Whitecraft was badly burned when he attempted to rescue the stock. Neighbors rushed to the scene and a bucket brigade was formed. The water which the voluntary firemen were able to throw on the building did little good and it was shortly in ruins.

SON'S SUICIDE CAUSED WOMAN TO KILL SELF

New York, Jan. 10.—Brooding particularly over the recent suicide of her 22-year-old son Sidney, and because of family troubles, Mrs. Lotte Hyde Buffington, a handsome woman of 39, wife of Ona Buffington, a Philadelphia lawyer, committed suicide by shooting herself in the mouth, after first turning on the gas.

By the bedside on which she was found was a photograph of her dead son and a clipping from a Philadelphia newspaper telling of his suicide. The clipping was headed "Nephew of Judge Joseph Buffington brooding over family difficulties, commits suicide."

It was generally felt, it appears, that the young man's suicide was due to the separation of his parents, about 15 months ago. The Judge Buffington mentioned is a United States judge at Pittsburgh.

A brief note addressed to "All my dear, dear friends," was also found in the room. "Forgive, if forgiveness is needed," it read. "There is nothing else for me to do. I only surrender to a God who is more just than man. Goodbye."

Mrs. Buffington lived alone in the apartment. A son, Kenneth, aged 19, is a student at Amherst.

Coshocton, Jan. 10.—Howard Layton of this city is being sought by township authorities for the desertion of his wife and three small children who have been left in destitute circumstances, and who are being cared for by the trustees.

SNOW SLIDE KILLS SEVERAL IN PLOW

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 10.—A snow slide swept down upon a rotary snow plow at Cut Banks, Mont., last night and several men are said to have been killed. A great storm is raging in that district and many of the telegraph wires are down.

WISCONSIN MAN IS BADLY HURT AT OUTVILLE

A man who gave his name as Jack O'Brien, claiming West Superior, Wis., as his home, was painfully and seriously injured here Tuesday night. He was beating his way west on a freight train and when the train arrived at Outville he was almost frozen. He managed to climb down from his position beneath the cars and started to cross the tracks to the station for the purpose of getting warm. As he was crossing the tracks the engine of the third section of Panhandle passenger train No. 19, went bound, struck him and hurled him from the track for some distance. Several persons who had witnessed the accident went to the man's assistance and found that he had been seriously injured. He was in a semi-conscious condition and talked in a rambling manner. Dr. Leatherman was called and after making an examination found that one of his legs was broken and his skull fractured. He was sent to Columbus and taken to the St. Francis Hospital. The injured man is about 30 years old and was well dressed.

OPTION ELECTION AT CUYAHOGA FALLS

Akron, Jan. 10.—Cuyahoga Falls, with 11 saloons, is today holding a local option election and a large vote is being cast. The campaign ended last night with addresses for the drys by James Rutledge and Homer Durand of Cincinnati for the wets.

WILL GIVE FIRST OFFENDERS CHANCE

Akron, Jan. 10.—John R. Vonzham, who the first of the year took his place as police judge of Akron, has announced that all first offenders arrested for minor offenses will be given a chance to make good. Several Akron manufacturers have offered to employ such men who must report to the judge once a week.

NEWARK BOY IS DEAD IN CANADA

Frank Ingle of Cambria avenue, West Newark, received a telegram Wednesday from Raley River, Ont., Can., notifying him that his son, Boyle Ingle, aged 25 years, had been killed. No particulars were received. The deceased was well known here, but for some time had made his home in Columbus with his wife and two children. About two months ago he left for Raley River to accept a position on a railroad as a brakeman. He worked in the belt or shop at the B. & O. shops and at the Jewett Car Co. The body will be brought to Columbus for burial. His wife and children are visiting at the home of his father here.

GOLDSBOROUGH IS INAUGURATED

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 10.—Philip Lee Goldsborough, the first Republican governor of Maryland in 16 years, and second since the civil war, was inaugurated today in the presence of a multitude of people. Military and civil parades followed the inaugural address.

BALTIMORE CHOSEN BY DEMOCRATS

National Convention Will be Held in That City June 25

HARMON HEADQUARTER

Selected Within Few Hours After City Was Named—Agree in Permissive Primary

Washington, Jan. 10.—The Democratic national committee completed its work here with the selection of Baltimore as the convention city. June 25 was fixed as the date of the national gathering when candidates for president and vice president will be selected. The Republican national convention is to be held in Chicago June 18.

The Democrats adopted a permissive primary resolution in connection with the call for delegates, and such states as have laws on the subject or desire to do so, can select their representatives in the national convention by direct vote. There are 1074 delegates to be chosen.

Harmony marked the sitting of the committee which was given over almost entirely to the arguments of the representatives of the various states bidding for the convention. William Jennings Bryan did not attend the meeting.

There was a brief controversy over the proposed recognition of the Progressive League clubs, an organization said to have grown out of the independence league movement, started by William Randolph Hearst. When objection was made the question of recognition was deferred for four years.

National Chairman Norman E. Mack was named to head the subcommittee on arrangements for the convention. Vice Chairman Hall of Nebraska, and Secretary Urey Woodson of Kentucky will be ex-officio members of this subcommittee and there will be seven additional members to be named later by Mr. Mack. The primary resolution adopted was a modification of one proposed by Senator Chamberlain of Oregon. It was framed by a subcommittee headed by Clark Howell of Georgia, and was as follows:

"That in the choice of delegates and alternates to the national Democratic convention of 1912, the Democratic state or territorial committees may, if not otherwise directed by law of such states or territories, provide for the direct election of such delegates or alternates, if in the opinion of the respective committee, it is deemed desirable and possible to do so with proper and sufficient safeguards. Where such provision is not made by the respective committees for the choice of delegates and alternates and where the state laws do not provide specifically the manner of such choice then the delegates and alternates to the said national convention shall be chosen in the manner that governed the choice of delegates from the respective states and territories to the latest Democratic national convention."

Baltimore led in the fight for the convention from the very first, but two ballots were required before St. Louis succumbed. Then the vote was made unanimous. The Baltimore bid was accompanied by a certified check for $100,000. Ohio's representative voted for St. Louis.

GOVERNOR HARMON ENGAGES ROOMS

Baltimore, Jan. 10.—Within an hour after announcement was made of the selection of Baltimore as the meeting place for the next Democratic convention requests for reservation of rooms at hotels began to pour in by telegraph. Representative of Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey and Jordon Harmon of Ohio engaged rooms late in the afternoon.

SELECTION SUITS HARMON

Columbus, O., Jan. 10.—When asked what he thought of the selection of Baltimore as the place and June 25 as the date for the Democratic national convention, Governor Harmon yesterday said: "I am greatly pleased with both selections. While I have never expressed to anyone a preference and really had none, I always felt that the splendid hospitality which Baltimore showed to the Democrats of the country at the celebration a year ago would have a strong influence in her favor as the place for holding the convention."

REINFORCEMENTS SENT. Hong Kong, Jan. 10.—A further detachment of Indian troops with field and machine guns was dispatched from here today to Canton to reinforce the troops already there.

this type, known as the "H-H-1," may be adopted.

The new engine is longer than the Pennsylvania's new steel coaches.

From the point of the pilot to the pulling face of the coupler on the rear of the tender the distance is 98 feet 3 3/4 inches. The weight of the engine in working order and the tender loaded is 668,000 pounds. This is 238,000 pounds heavier than the class "K-2," the heaviest passenger engine, and 275,000 pounds heavier than the class "H-8-B," the heaviest freight engine which the Pennsylvania is now using. It is 644,275 pounds heavier than the "John Bull," the Pennsylvania's oldest locomotive.

There are four cylinders, each having a diameter of 27 inches and a stroke of 28 inches. Each of the sixteen drive wheels is 56 inches in diameter and the total heating surface is 17,326 square feet—1,937 more than on the "K-2." On the "John Bull" the heating surface was only 113 square feet. The inside dimensions of the firebox are 12 feet and 1-8 inch by 8 feet and 1-4 inch. The tender will hold 5,000 gallons of water and 50,000 pounds of coal.

GAME TOMORROW NIGHT CALLED AT 8 O'CLOCK

Thursday night the "Y" basketball team plays the speedy Plain City Cubs who defeated the Marysville team New Years afternoon. That this will be a good game goes without saying as the Plain City team has always been composed of good players.

The game will be called at 8 o'clock and will be played at Hickey Hall which is well heated and there is plenty of room for 400 people.

On Friday night the strong Hiram College team which plays Denison Saturday night will be seen in action against the "Y" team at Hickey Hall. Either one of these games will be worth more than the price of admission which is only 25 cents to all.

AMUSEMENTS

Press Agent Says:

Auditorium Theatre. That famous New England comedy "Uncle Josh Spruceby" will be seen at the Auditorium theatre on Friday, January 12th, one night only.

"Uncle Josh Spruceby" is a rural comedy drama with a strong plot. Its comedy is clean and wholesome and its dramatic situations are strong, and yet they are not melodramatic.

The production is well staged and the people are capable. Watch for the big street parade at noon and hear the famous "Uncle Josh Spruceby" band. The people of Newark will have a chance to see this well known comedy at popular prices, 10, 20, 30, and 50 cents.

"Baby Mine."

At a moment when the spice of novelty was sorely needed to give zest to the new dramatic season, an alarming percentage of the first class plays showed a sudden inclination to seek that path of kindly oblivion which leads to the storehouse, "Baby Mine," by Margaret Mayo, which excels the best native standards of comedy.

It was produced by William A. Brady, limited, at Daly's theatre, New York, and its success was instantaneous. It ran for one solid year at Daly's theatre and is now being performed at the Criterion theatre, London, where it has reached its second year. It will be presented here under the direction of William A. Brady Ltd. on next Saturday, matinee and night.

THE ORPHEUM.

Another excellent vaudeville program is booked to open at the popular Arcade playhouse tomorrow for the last three days of the week. Chief among the four high class acts scheduled is Rosa Nagyon's Trained Birds. Miss Nagyon is said to have a wonderful troupe of her little trained performers, who would seem almost human from the stunts they perform. This act has been secured as a special treat for the ladies and children. Martin and Miller will present Chas. Howitz's latest success entitled "Mooney's Soul Mate." This is a good lively sketch, full of clean, up-to-date comedy throughout, and is always a hit as presented by this clever team. "The Pepper Twins" will introduce a new line of songs and novelties. They come to Newark well recommended and it is known that they are more than pleasing in the larger houses on the city stage. Chas. De Pur and Lillian Estes will be seen in a singing, talking and dancing act that is not a bit slow. Miss Estes is a very pretty miss who never fails to please with her dainty mannerisms and Mr. De Pur is a real live comedian. The Orpheum-scene will have a new picture.

PART I.

CHAPTER I.

It was a quiet night in the Tivoli. At the bar, which ranged along one side of the large, chinked-log room, leaned half a dozen men, two of whom were discussing the relative merits of spruce tea and lime juice as remedies for scurvy. They argued with an air of depression and with intervals of morose silence. The other men scarcely heeded them. In a row, against the opposite wall, were the gambling games. The crap table was deserted. One lone man was playing at the faro table. The roulette was not even spinning, and the gamekeeper stood by the roaring, red-hot stove, talking with a young, dark-eyed woman, comely of face and figure, who was known from Juneau to Fort Yukon as the Virgin. Three men sat in at stud poker, but they played with small chips and without enthusiasm, while there were no onlookers. On the floor of the dancing room, which opened out at the rear, three couples were waltzing daintily to the strains of a violin and a piano.

Circle City was not deserted, nor was money tight. The miners were in from Moosehead creek and the other diggings to the west, the summer washing had been good, and the men's pouches were heavy with dust and nuggets. The Klondike had not yet been discovered, nor had the miners of the Yukon learned the possibilities of deep digging and wood-firing. No work was done in the winter, and they made a practice of hibernating in the large camps like Circle City during the long Arctic night. Time was heavy on their hands, their pouches were well filled and the only social diversion to be found was in the saloons. Yet the Tivoli was practically deserted, and the Virgin, standing by the stove, yawned with uncovered mouth and said to Charley Bates:

"If something don't happen soon, I'm goin' to bed. What's the matter with the camp, anyway? Everybody dead."

Bates did not even trouble to reply, but went on moodily rolling a cigarette. Dan MacDonald, pioneer saloonman and gambler on the upper Yukon; owner and proprietor of the Tivoli and all its games, wandered forlornly across the great vacant space of floor and joined the two at the stove.

"Anybody dead?" the Virgin asked him.

"Looks like it," was the answer. "Then it must be the whole camp," she said with an air of finality and with another yawn.

MacDonald grinned and nodded, and opened his mouth to speak, when the front door swung open and a man appeared. A large man had not a huge French-Canadian stepped up to him from the bar and gripped his hand.

"Hello, Daylight!" was his greeting. "By Gar, you good for sore eyes!"

"Hello, Louis, when did you all blow in?" returned the newcomer. "Come up and have a drink and tell us all about Bone creek. Why, dog-gone you-all, shake again. Where's that pardner of yours? I'm looking for him."

Another huge man detached himself from the bar to shake hands. Olaf Henderson and French Louis, partners together on Bone creek, were the two largest men in the country, and though they were but half a head taller than the newcomer, between them he was dwarfed completely.

"Hello, Olaf," said the one called Daylight. "Tomorrow's my birthday. And you, too, Louis. Come up and drink, and I'll tell you all about it."

The arrival of the newcomer seemed to send a flood of warmth through the place. "It's Burning Daylight," the Virgin cried, the first to recognize him as he came into the light. Charley Bates' tight features relaxed at the sight, and MacDonald went over and joined the three at the bar. With the advent of Burning Daylight the whole place suddenly became brighter and cheerier. The barkeepers were active. Voices were raised. Somebody laughed. And when the fiddler, peering into the front room, remarked to the pianist: "It's Burning Daylight," the waltz time perceptibly quickened, and the dancers, catching the contagion, began to whirl about as if they really enjoyed it. It was known to them of old-time that nothing languished when Burning Daylight was around.

He turned from the bar and saw the woman by the stove and the eager look of welcome she extended him.

"Hello, Virgin, old girl," he called. "Hello, Charley. What's the matter with you-all? Why wear faces like that when coffins only cost three ounces? Come up, you-all, and drink. Come up, you unburied dead, an' name your poison. Come up, everybody. This is my night, and I'm going to ride it. To-morrow I'm thirty, and then I'll be an old man. It's the last fling of youth. Are you-all with me? Surge along, then. Surge along."

The waltz in the back room being finished, the three couples, followed by the fiddler and the pianist and heading for the bar, caught Daylight's eye.

"Surge along, you-all!" he cried. "Surge along and name it. This is my night, and it ain't a night that comes frequent. Surge up, you Siwash and Salmon-eaters. It's my night, I tell you-all!"

"A blamed mangy night," Charley Bates interpolated.

"You're right, my son," Burning Daylight went on, gayly. "A mangy night, but it's my night, you see. I'm the mangy old he-wolf. Listen to me howl!"

And howl he did, like a lone gray timber wolf, till the Virgin thrust her pretty fingers in her ears and shivered. A minute later she was whirling away in his arms to the dancing floor, where, along with three other women and their partners, a rollicking Virginia reel was soon in progress.

Few men knew Elam Harnish by any other name than Burning Daylight, the name which had been given him in the early days in the land because of his habit of routing his comrades out of their blankets with the complaint that daylight was burning. Of the pioneers in that far Arctic wilderness, where all men were pioneers, he was reckoned among the oldest. Men like Al Mayo and Jack McQuestion antedated him; but they had entered the land by crossing the Rockies from the Hudson Bay country to the east. He, however, had been the pioneer over the Chilcoot and Chilkoot passes. In the spring of 1883, twelve years before, a stripping of eighteen, he had crossed over the Chilcoot with five comrades. In the fall he had crossed back with one. Four had perished by mischance in the bleak, uncharted vastness. And for twelve years Elam Harnish had continued to grope for gold among the shadows of the Circle. Heroes are seldom given to hero-worship, but among those of that land, young as he was, he was accounted an elder hero. In point of time he was before them. In point of deed he was beyond them.

He was a striking figure of a man, of all the men in the Tivoli. Soft-tanned moccasins of moose-hide, beaded in Indian designs, covered his feet. His trousers were ordinary overalls, his coat was made from a blanket. Long-gauntleted leather mittens, lined with wool, hung by his side. They were connected, in the Yukon fashion by a leather thong passed around the neck and across the shoulders. On his head was a fur cap, the ear-flaps raised and the tinsel-cords dangling. His face, lean and slightly long, with the suggestion of hollows under the cheek bones, seemed almost Indian. The burnt skin and keen dark eyes contributed to this effect, though the bronze of the skin and the eyes themselves were essentially those of a white man. He looked older than thirty, and yet, smooth-shaven and without wrinkles, he was almost boyish. The impression of age was based on no tangible evidence. It came from the abstract facts of the man, from what he had endured and survived, which was far beyond that of ordinary men. He had lived naked and tensely, and something of all this smoldered in his eyes, vibrated in his voice and seemed forever a whisper on his lips.

It was two in the morning when the dancers, bent on getting something to eat, adjourned the dancing for half an hour. And it was at this moment that Jack Kearns suggested poker. Jack Kearns was a big, bluff-featured man, who, along with Bettles, had made the disastrous attempt to found a post on the head-reaches of the Koyukuk, far inside the Arctic circle. After that Kearns had fallen back on his posts at Forty Mile and Sixty Mile and changed the direction of his ventures by sending out to the states for a small saw-mill and a river steamer. Jack Kearns suggested poker. French Louis, Dan MacDonald and Hal Campbell (who had made a strike on Moosehide), all three of whom were not dancing because there were not girls enough to go around, inclined to the suggestion. They were looking for a fifth man when Burning Daylight emerged from the rear room, the Virgin on his arm, the train of dancers in his wake. In response to the hail of the poker-players, he came over to their table in the corner.

"Want to sit in," said Campbell. "How's your luck?"

"I sure got it tonight," Burning Daylight answered with enthusiasm, and at the same time felt the Virgin press his arm warningly. She wanted him for the dancing. "I sure got my luck with me, but I'd sooner dance. I ain't hankerin' to take the money away from you-all."

Nobody urged. They took his refusal as final, and the Virgin was pressing his arm to turn him away in pursuit of the supper-seekers, when he experienced a change of heart. It was not that he did not want to dance, nor that he wanted to hurt her; but that insistent pressure on his arm put his free man-nature in revolt. The thought in his mind was that he did not want any woman running him. Himself a favorite with women, nevertheless they did not bulk big with him. They were toys, playthings, part of the relaxation from the bigger game of life. He met women along with the whisky and gambling, and from observation he had found that it was far easier to break away from the drink and the cards than from a woman once the man was properly entangled. He resisted the pull on his arm by the mere negative mass of him, and said:

"I sort of feel a hankerin' to give you-all a flutter."

Tact and sympathy strove with him, and he smiled with his eyes into the Virgin's eyes as he said:

"You-all go and get some grub. I ain't hungry. And we'll dance some more by and by. The night's young yet. Go it, old girl."

He released his arm and thrust her playfully on the shoulder, at the same time turning to the poker players.

"Take off the limit and I'll go you-all."

"Limit's the roof," said Jack Kearns. Once started, it was a quiet game, with little or no conversation, though all about the players the place was a-roar. Elam Harnish had ignited the spark. More and more miners dropped in to the Tivoli and remained. When Burning Daylight went on the tear, no man dared to miss it. The dancing floor was full. The luck at the table varied monotonously, no big hands being out. As a result, high play went on with small hands, though no play lasted long. But at three in the morning the big combination of hands arrived. It was the moment of moments that men wait weeks for in a poker game. The news of it tingled over the Tivoli. The onlookers became quiet.

The men farther away ceased talking and moved over to the table. The players deserted the other games, and the dancing floor was forsaken, so that all stood at last, fivescore and more in a compact and silent group, around the poker table. The high betting went on, with the draw not in sight. Kearns had dealt, and French Louis had opened the pot with one marker—in his case one hundred dollars. Campbell had merely "seen" it, but Elam Harnish, coming next, had tossed in five hundred dollars, with the remark to MacDonald that he was letting him in easy. MacDonald glancing again at his hand, put in a thousand in markers. Kearns, debating a long time over his hand, finally "saw." It then cost French Louis nine hundred to remain in the game, which he contributed after a similar debate. It cost Campbell likewise nine hundred to remain and draw cards, but to the surprise of all he saw the nine hundred and raised another thousand.

"You-all are on the grade at last," Harnish remarked, as he saw the fifteen hundred and raised a thousand in turn. "Helen Breakfast's sure on top this divide, and you-all had best look out for bustin' harness."

"Me for that same lady," accompanied MacDonald's markers for two thousand and for an additional thousand-dollar raise.

"I ain't got no more markers," Kearns remarked plaintively. "We'd best begin I. O. U's."

"Glad you're going to stay," was MacDonald's cordial response.

"I ain't stayed yet. I've got a thousand in already. How's it stand now?"

"I'll cost you three thousand for a look in, but nobody will stop you from raising."

"Raise—h—l. You must think I got a pat like yourself," Kearns looked at his hand. "But I'll tell you what I'll do, Mac. I've got a hunch, and I'll just see that three thousand."

He wrote the sum on a slip of paper, signed his name, and consigned it to the center of the table.

French Louis became the focus of all eyes. He fingered his cards nervously for a pace. Then, with a "By Gar! Ah got not one leetle beet hunch," he regretfully tossed his hand into the discard.

The next moment the hundred and odd pairs of eyes shifted to Campbell.

"I won't hump you, Jack," he said, contenting himself with calling the requisite two thousand.

The eyes shifted to Harnish, who scribbled on a piece of paper and shoved it forward.

"I'll just let you-all know this ain't no Sunday school society of philanthropy," he said. "I see you, Jack, and I raise you a thousand. Here's where you-all get action on your pat, Mac."

"Action's what I fatten on, and I lift another thousand," was MacDonald's rejoinder. "Still got that hunch, Jack?"

"I still got that hunch," Kearns fingered his cards a long time. "And I'll play it, but you've got to know how I stand. There's my steamer, the Bella—worth twenty thousand if she's worth an ounce. There's Sixty-Mile with five thousand in stock on the shelves. And you know I got a saw-mill coming in. It's at Linderman now, and the scow is building. Am I good?"

"Dig in; you're sure good," was Daylight's answer. "And while we're about it, I may mention casual that I got twenty thousand in Mac's safe, there, and there's twenty thousand more in the ground on Moosehide. You know the ground, Campbell. Is they that all in the dirt?"

"There sure is, Daylight."

"How much does it cost now?" Kearns asked.

"Two thousand to see."

"We'll sure hump you if you-all come in," Daylight warned him.

"It's an almighty good hunch," Kearns said, adding his slip to the growing heap. "I can feel her crawling in up and down my back."

"There sure is, Daylight."

The kerosene lamps above flung high lights from the rash of sweat on his forehead. The bronze of his cheeks was darkened by the accession of blood. His black eyes glittered and his nostrils were distended and eager. They were large nostrils, tokening his descent from savage ancestors who had survived by virtue of deep lungs and generous air-passages. Yet, unlike MacDonald, his voice was firm and customary, and, unlike Kearns his hand did not tremble when he wrote.

"I call, for ten thousand," he said. "Not that I'm afraid of you-all, Mac. It's that hunch of Jack's."

"I hump his hunch for five thousand just the same," said MacDonald. "I had the best hand before the draw, and I still guess I got it."

"Mebbe this is a case where a hunch after the draw is better'n the hunch before," Kearns remarked; wherefore duty says, "Lift her, Jack, lift her," and so I lift her another five thousand."

Daylight leaned back in his chair and gazed up at the kerosene lamps while he computed aloud:

"I was in nine thousand before the draw, and I saw and raised eleven thousand—that makes thirty. I'm only good for ten more." He leaned forward and looked at Kearns. "So I call er five thousand."

"You can raise if you want," Kearns answered. "Your dogs are good for five thousand in this game."

"Nary dawg. You-all can win my dust and dirt, but nary one of my dawgs. I just call."

The saloon keeper finally spoke: "If anybody else wins, they'll have to take a mortgage on the Tivoli!"

The two other players nodded. "So I call, too."

MacDonald added his slip for five thousand. Not one of them claimed the pot, and not one of them called the size of his hand. Simultaneously and in silence they faced their cards on the table, while a general tiptoeing and craning of necks took place among the onlookers.

Daylight showed four queens and an ace; MacDonald four jacks and an ace, and Kearns four kings and a trey. Kearns reached forward with an encircling movement of his arm and drew the pot in to him, his arm shaking as he did so. Daylight picked the ace from his hand and tossed it over alongside MacDonald's ace, saying:

"That's what cheered me along, Mac. I knowed it was only kings that could beat me, and he had them."

"What did you-all have?" he asked, all interest, turning to Campbell.

"Straight flush, of four, open at both ends—a good drawing hand."

"You bet! You could a made a straight, a straight flush or a flush out of it."

"That's what I thought," Campbell said, sadly. "It cost me six thousand before I quit."

"I wish you-all'd drawn," Daylight laughed. "Then I wouldn't a caught that fourth queen. Now I've got to take Billy Rawlins' mail contract and mush for Dyea. What's the size of the killing, Jack?"

Kearns attempted to count the pot, but was too excited. Daylight drew it across to him, with firm fingers separating and stacking the markers and I. O. U's and with clear brain adding the sum.

"One hundred and twenty-seven thousand," he announced. "You-all can sell out now, Jack, and head for home."

The winner smiled and nodded, but seemed incapable of speech.

"Name your snake-juice, you-all—the winner pays!" Daylight called out loudly to all about him, at the same time rising from his chair and catching the Virgin by the arm. "Come on for a reel, you-all dancers. The night's young yet, and it's Helen Breakfast and the mail contract for me in the morning. Here, you-all Rawlins, you—

I hereby do take over that same contract, and I start for salt water at nine a. m.—savvy? Come on, you-all! Where's that fiddler?"

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES

They Are Closely Observing Public Health Conditions.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that the reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of applicants do not even suspect that they have the disease.

He states that judging from his own experience and reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has probably been more successful in relieving and curing these diseases than any remedy known. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of cures.

We find that Swamp Root is strictly an herbal compound and we would advise our readers who feel in need of such a remedy to give it a trial. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes—fifty cents and one dollar.

However, if you wish first to test its wonderful merits, send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle, absolutely free. When writing be sure and mention The Newark Daily Advocate.

Footprints on the sands of time are all that, but be careful not to make them on mother's clean kitchen floor.

S.S.S. THE REMEDY FOR SORES AND ULCERS

The combination of healthful vegetable ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed, makes it an especially desirable and effective remedy in the treatment of sores and ulcers of every kind. Since an impure condition of the blood is responsible for the trouble, a medicine that can purify the blood is the only hope of a successful cure; and it should be a medicine that not only cleanses the circulation, but one that at the same time restores the blood to its normal, rich, nutritive condition. S. S. S. is just such a remedy. It is made entirely of healing, cleansing vegetable properties, extracted from nature's roots, herbs and barks of the forest and fields. It has long been recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers, possessing the qualities necessary to remove every impurity in the blood. When S. S. S. has purified the circulation, and strengthened and enriched it, sores and ulcers heal readily and surely, because they are no longer fed and kept open by a continual discharge into them of irritating disease-laden matter from the blood. S. S. S. brings about a healthy condition of the flesh by supplying it with rich, nourishing blood and makes a permanent and lasting cure. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice mailed free to all who write.

SCIENTIFIC ASSOCIATION OF DENISON

Carried Out Splendid Program Last Evening—News of Granville and Vicinity.

Granville, Jan. 10.—The regular meeting of the Scientific Association of Denison was held last evening and was attended by a large number of the members, who were deeply interested in the splendid program which was carried out. D. J. Tigh made a section report upon "Phases of the Telephone," showing diagrams of the simplest type, the most commonly used, and complex type, allowing four persons to talk on a telephone instrument is connected also.

"Phases of Personal Equation" was the subject of Richard Watkins' remarks, which were in the nature of a report of the results of an experiment with corn and the selection of different kinds by 12 men of different training.

One of the most interesting features of the evening was the address by Prof. T. S. Johnson on "The Evolution of Anatomical and Engineering Instruments." He showed several instruments and several diagrams illustrating the evolution and his remarks were very interesting.

A marble pedestal to support the bronze bust of Dr. Ashmore in the library will soon be placed, and is the gift of Earl Richards, of the class of '14. The bust has stood for some time on one of the desks and will make a better appearance when suitably mounted upon an appropriate pedestal. It will be ready in a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Norton of Bellefontaine, O., who have been visiting relatives and friends in Granville and in the northern part of the county for the past two weeks, left for their home Wednesday.

Donison will observe the day of prayer for colleges Thursday, Jan. 18. On that occasion Dr. W. B. Wallace of Brooklyn, N. Y., will preach the sermon. It is expected that he will arrive in Granville Monday, Jan. 15, and that services will be held in the Baptist church each evening from Monday until Friday.

Mr. Wallace is well known in Granville, and he will be cordially welcomed.

Manager Brown has completed the basketball schedule for this season, which is as follows:

Jan. 13—Hiram at Granville.
Jan. 20—Oberlin at Granville.
Feb. 2—Central University at Danville, Ky.

Feb. 5—Cincinnati University at Cincinnati.
Feb. 6—Miami at Oxford.
Feb. 7—St. Mary's at Dayton.
Feb. 10—Ohio Wesleyan at Granville.

Feb. 21—Oberlin at Oberlin.
Feb. 20—Cincinnati University at Granville.

March 1—Miami at Granville.
March 9—Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware.

Ernest Barnes, son of the late Dr. Barnes, is quite sick at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilson of Terre Haute, Ind., who have been making an extended visit with friends here, left for their home Wednesday.

The little child of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Rees, south of town, has been seriously ill for some days, but is reported somewhat improved at this time.

Changeable, disagreeable weather is responsible for considerable sickness in the village at present.

The past several days have been strenuous ones for the plumbers of the village. They have been working overtime repairing frozen and bursted water pipes, and the m'ers have been clicking so fast that they sounded like telegraph instruments at work. However, relief from the excessive cold came Wednesday, when the temperature slowly relinquished its grip and this morning when people glanced at the silver fluid in the glass tube and found 10 degrees above zero, they experienced a thrill of relief.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Carlin of near Oberlin, O., who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Atwood, south of the village, for the past few days, left for Columbus Wednesday morning, where they will make a short visit with their daughter, Mrs. Harold Freeman, before returning home.

Miss Sadie Williams has returned to her home in Columbus after a short visit here with her friend, Miss Laura Morrison.

GAS SHORTAGE CLOSES SCHOOLS AT COSHOCTON

Coshocton, Jan. 10.—The gas shortage here continues and much suffering is experienced as a consequence. Much damage has been wrought by freezing water pipes, fires resulting from efforts to thaw pipes or keep them from freezing and several of the city school buildings were so cold that school was dismissed.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.
Stretching.
It imparts elasticity.
It will lift the vital organs.
It gives strength and poise to the body.
The clothing must be loose and comfortable.
To begin any exercise one must stand erect.
The chest should be high, the head up and the chin in.
The body should rest on the balls of the feet, not on the heels.
At first it may be enough to breathe deeply and slowly mouth closed while standing.
This alone is a fine thing if practiced in the open air or before a window open up and down for five or ten minutes twice a day.
Now for the stretching. Sweep the arms slowly outward and upward until they touch above the head, lifting the chest walls and stretching the arms.
Lower the arms with the same sweep, stretching them all the time. Five times will be enough at first. You should breathe deeply and slowly all the time.

A Washington correspondent who seems to know what he is writing about, says that in 1908 when President Roosevelt was starting his campaign for the nomination of Mr. Taft, he told the guests at a dinner party that he would like to be first nominated himself "in order to decline the nomination in a letter that would go down in history with Washington's farewell address." The correspondent puts this forward as the prize exhibition of egotism, yet it is not surprising considering the Colonel's known opinions. It was he who called Thomas Jefferson a shifty doctrinaire and consigned Andrew Jackson to the limbo of incompetency. A man who could improve on the Declaration of Independence and fight the battle of New Orleans better than it was fought besides doing more efficiently the various other little things that Jefferson and Jackson did, could dash off a little screed like Washington's farewell address between drinks, and no
Carolina interval either.

How the Central Board Has Saved The State's Money.

"An ounce of accomplishment is worth a ton of talk," said Governor Harmon recently, and he pointed to a financial statement prepared by the State Board of Administration.

The statement shows that the board in the three months, from August 13, when it took charge, to November 13, reduced the expenditures for the 18 state institutions under its control by $73,948.18, as compared with the record of 1910 under the old system. The figures gave the governor much pleasure, inasmuch as it was through his efforts that the central board act was passed.

The statement shows: Maintenance cost, 1910, $823,356.18; 1911, $770,363.31; ordinary repairs and improvements, 1910, $81,494.79; 1911, $60,539.28. With the $60,000 the board says it has done more than was done through the expenditure of $80,000.

Reviewing the three months work, President A. W. Thurman said: "Hampered by lack of room, we have evolved a system of institutional accounting, which is working out well; have visited the institutions under our charge monthly, as required by law, and have done the purchasing for most of the institutions though it has been impossible, thus far, for us to put the purchasing system into operation for all of them. That will come as soon as possible.

"We think this is a good showing, because, as every one knows, the general run of prices for almost all articles is very considerably higher this year than it was last. From now on, however, the board will do substantially all the purchasing, and we hope to make still greater savings.

"Much of our success has been owing to the cordial co-operation and support given us by Governor Harmon. The superintendents also have been most faithful in joining with us to make a success of our work." There has not been much talk on the part of the Ohio executive during his administration, but his accomplishments have never been matched by another Ohio governor.

EXTRA WIDE CLOTH AND MACHINE TAXES
The American mind is a particularly ingenious and inventive kind of mind, (or there is no branch of industry, science or art, no manner of business, no manner of work or play that American ingenuity has not altered or improved. For example: James Lyall of New York has invented one improvement after another to increase the value of the old loom, among which is a new shuttle. This shuttle has a positive and unvarying motion, so that it can be made to fly across almost any width of loom and thus weave the "extra wide" material, for which modern civilization finds so many uses and which was hitherto unknown.

Another genius, Thomas Blanchard, son of a Massachusetts farmer, invented when little more than a boy

Ah, breakfast is a cheerful meal, with sausage sizzling from the pan, and when I've eaten it I feel a nobler and a better man! The sausage basely is maligned by jesters lost in mental fogs, who cannot lift the sordid miasma from thoughts of vagrant cats and does. Whenever I view the smoking link of sausage, flanking buckwheat piles, I float on pleasant dreams and think of snowy pigs in verdant isles. The pigs from which the sausage came were nicely washed in sparkling rills; each wore a garland on its frame, and fed on dates and daffodils.

The public service commission took up a line of work that will bring forth the approbation of all citizens when the members announced they would make an inquiry into the accident in North High street, Columbus, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Ruth Wells of Eighth avenue, in Protestant Hospital. She was struck the night of December 23 by a street car, and lived only a few hours. The circumstances surrounding the accident have never been cleared up, and the commission is anxious to know the details.

THESE ARE PLAIN FACTS

Now, when nearly everybody is coughing, it is well to know the plain truth about coughs and colds. Since coughs are caused by irritation of the sensitive lining of the bronchial tubes, the only way to cure a cough is to stop that inflammation. The only way to do that is through the blood—by making it richer so that it will nourish and soothe the tender, inflamed tissues. Instead of cough syrups we always recommend that sterling blood and strength remover, Vinol. It is a delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil and actually cures coughs, colds and bronchitis by building up the whole system.

Mrs. Bessie Maties, Lynchburg, S. C., says: "I want you to know what Vinol has done for me. I have had chronic bronchitis for the past year, coughing and losing sleep a great deal. Two bottles of Vinol fixed me up at right, my cough is gone and I am better in every way."

We give back two money if Vinol does not do all that we claim. F. D. Hall, druggist, Newark, N. J.

ONE CASE IN POLICE COURT THIS MORNING

The wave of good behavior that has swept over the city during the past few days showed no signs of abating and but one case was up for hearing before Mayor Swartz this morning. The case in question was that of a plain drunk hailing from Cincinnati. He was ordered out of town.

SHOO. Aint that fine, having a kitten in my shoo in the morning. Eny antil that has no moar respect for its awfprins than to leave them erround in peepils shoo in the morning awt to be put out of its misery, he sed, and Ive got a good mind to send the animal waggin up aftr that kat to day.
O, dont do that, Wilyum, sed ma, weve had that kat awlmost 8 years now, and it wood seem crool.
Well, Id like to have a dollar for every kitten that kat has had, sed pop, the animal is krzy awn the subject. Just then he went to get a koller, and he sed, Hah, a kitten is my koller books, Im taroo. That kat dyes, and pop held up another kitten, wich it was a yello kitten with black spots.
O, Wilyum, I do wish you wood have a littil payshenks with her, sed ma, and pop sed, Payshenks be hanged, I tell you eny kat that wood put her kittens in man's shooz and koller books is no lady, to say the least. Im going to telephone for the kat waggin.
Wich if he did it hasent calm yet.

SAUSAGE.

Each pig was nurtured on delights and bredched a soft and scented air. 'Twas killed with sacrificial rites, and ground and stuffed by dainty fair. And Araby the blest was raked for spices pure, without alloy; and when at last 'twas linked or caked, I ate it with a whoop of joy. I have no heart to sing the rose, the lily or pomegranate; the smell of sausage hits my nose, and you'll excuse me while I eat.

SANNS DENIES TALE OF ASSAULT

Several days ago a story of a murderous assault on Caesar Sanns of this city by a man named Davis gained currency through newspaper publicity. The story as published gave melodramatic incidents of a girl, a quarrel and an attempted stabbing, in which the victim was seriously injured.

The young man who was designated as the victim of the attack told an Advocate reporter the following story, expressing a desire to correct the impression caused by the published article.

Mr. Sanns stated that there was no quarrel, neither was there a young lady concerned in the accident. According to the statement of Edward Bartley, who was scuffling in a friendly manner when the accident occurred, he said that at the time Hartley had a knife in his hand and was threatening a pencil. Sanns threw his hand above his head and in so doing struck the knife, which merely grazed his arm. The flesh was but slightly cut and he experienced no serious results from the wound.

Sanns was emphatic in his denial of the quarrel and stated that the injury was purely accidental.

YOU DON'T NEED A NEW STOMACH

You Can Now Look Any Meal Square in the Face and Then Just "Go For It." If You Take Stewart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Every Meal Smiles at Me Now Since I've Been Taking Stewart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The minute the stomach ceases to perform its functions properly the whole body begins to suffer. The food is only half-digested, the body only half-nourished. And the undigested portion of the food ferments and decays, generating nauseating gases which derange the whole system. The eventual result is chronic dyspepsia, heartburn, bad breath, dizziness, flatulency and sick headache.

Stewart's Dyspepsia Tablets instantly relieve all ailments of the stomach and digestive tract. They act quickly, safely and naturally—just like Nature herself. They contain in themselves the elements which go to make up the natural gastric juice. They actually digest the food, relieving the stomach of all the hard work. Stewart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the stand-by of many a doctor in the worst cases of stomach trouble, and they never fail him.

All druggists carry and recommend Stewart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They are sold at 50 cents a box. If you want to try them first, we will send you a trial package free on receipt of your name and address. F. A. Stewart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

OBITUARY

S. H. LOVEJOY.
Stephen H. Lovejoy, aged about 58 years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Etta Huffman, on Roe avenue, Tuesday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock, after an illness of some time with acute bronchitis. The deceased was an old Lake Shore railroad engineer. He is survived by one son Henry Lovejoy of this city, and three daughters, Mrs. Etta Huffman, Miss Lillie Lovejoy and Mrs. Joseph Green of Liverpool. The funeral services will be held at the house Thursday morning at 8 o'clock and will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Laughlin, after which the body will be taken on the 9:45 a. m. Pennsylvania train to Urichville, where the internment will be made.

JOSHUA R. THOMPSON.
Joshua R. Thompson, aged 77, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. H. McKee, 114 South Webb street, this morning at 5 o'clock. Four daughters and two sons survive, Mrs. Margaret Carber of Mansfield, Mrs. Ester McKee of Newark, Mrs. Ella Done of Perryville, O., and Mrs. Elizabeth Vanzile of Wayne county. Joseph Thompson of Newark, and John W. Thompson. The funeral services will be held at the J. H. McKee home Thursday evening at 7 o'clock and the body shipped to Cambridge Friday morning. Interment at Claysville, O.

MRS. JONES' FUNERAL.
The funeral of Mrs. Jessie G. Jones, widow of the late Judge John David Jones of Cincinnati, who died at her home in that place, was held at the home on Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. T. Newell, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The funeral services were attended by a large number of relatives and friends and the floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The remains were brought to Newark and interred in Cedar Hill cemetery.

FUNERAL OF MR. VOGELMEIER.
The funeral of Mr. Frank Vogelmeier will be held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, instead of on Wednesday.

CARD OF THANKS.
We wish to tender our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during the suffering and death of our beloved daughter and sister, Florence; also for the beautiful floral gifts. George Bader and Family.

Tonsiline The Germs which cause Quinsy reach the deeper seated tissues by absorption through the tonsils, causing the horribly painful inflammation which results in suppuration. Quinsy is simply a development of Sore Throat to which some people are peculiarly subject. With them, a tedious or neglected Sore Throat terminates in Quinsy. With them, a quickly cured Sore Throat means Quinsy avoided and nothing cures Sore Throat so quickly and surely as TONSILINE.

Many such letters as below prove TONSILINE's value in preventing Quinsy. "Centimes—I have been subject to Quinsy for the last fifteen years and have simply had to suffer from ten to twelve weeks with it at every attack, never having been able to find a preventive, until I commenced using TONSILINE. Up until a year ago I had had ten attacks of Quinsy, but I have been able to resist twice since that time by the use of a 25 cent bottle of your remedy. Hoping that others similarly troubled will profit by my experience, and thanking you for what your TONSILINE has done for me, I remain, Yours very truly, E. E. REDMAN, 214 Clark street, Chicago, Ill., U. S. A."

Sufferers from Quinsy should always have TONSILINE ready for instant use on first signs of Sore Throat, and also on first signs of the Tonsillitis Co. Canton, Ohio.

CATARH IN HEAD ENDED FOREVER

Ely's Cream Balm Forever Ends Catarh Misery. Try a Bottle Tonight.

The most effective and harmless way to cure catarh or a cold in the head is to apply a little of Ely's Cream Balm. This pleasant, harmless, antiseptic, cleansing, healing Balm quickly heals the sore membranes and restores the sense of taste and smell. It will cure even the worst case of catarh.

Get a 50 cent bottle from your druggist, use it according to directions, and cold in the head, catarh, catarrhal deafness, headache, head noises and sneezing will all go. More than this, the Balm will strengthen the sensitive membranes, so that you can resist and throw off colds.

Quick relief from catarrhal misery awaits you at any drug store. A 50 cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm is generally more than sufficient to cure even a chronic case of catarh or hay fever. It is perfectly harmless.

DYNAMITE STORY ONLY FAIRY TALE

Newspapers near and far are publishing the Newark story about six men who blew a dog to pieces by tying a stick of dynamite to its tail. Now the editorial writers are taking it up.

The dynamite tale is thrilling and it is not surprising that the newspapers have played it up with big headlines. As the Advocate said yesterday, the only trouble with the story is that it is a fairy tale—a story of an occurrence in Kentucky six years ago, brought down to date and given a local setting.

The Advocate has just received from one of the editorial writers of the Columbus Dispatch the following letter:

Columbus, O., Jan. 9, 1912.

"In a dispatch from Newark yesterday I noted with horror the fiendish crime of six men who tied a stick of dynamite to the tail of a dog near that city, which exploded and blew the animal to pieces.

"The act seems so inhuman, and so inexcusable, that I feel it my duty to protest, and to urge that the humane society of the city of Newark—if you have one—if not, that the state society arrest the men, have them punished, and thus teach a lesson to future torturers.

"I do not know if your mayor has any jurisdiction over the men, but certainly the humane society has, and it will be to the credit of your society if the matter of their punishment is advocated."

STATE FAIR ESSAYS.

Secretary Sandles of the board of agriculture conceived a nice little scheme in bringing farm boys, nearly a hundred of them, to the state fair and paying the expense of their trip and keep by then doing odd jobs on the grounds. It was little educational affair in which some service was given for some knowledge.

Then the secretary invited the boys to write essays, giving a description of their visit and some account of what they learned, and he offered $15 for the best paper and $10 for the next best. There were 27 contestants for these prizes. The winner of the first, Parle, J. Noble, honors Ashtabula county, and of the second, C. W. Timm, Tuscarawas county.

We don't believe there was a contest at the state fair or a premium awarded calculated to do as much good as this little rivalry and its incidental prizes. It is a pleasant and profitable instance of sight-seeing, and composition is the best educational exercise there is. — Ohio State Journal

TIME RIPE FOR HUMANE SOCIETY

Considerable impetus should be given to our moribund Humane Society by the highly editing, special telegram of Jan. 8 to the Ohio State Journal regarding the amusement six given men provided for themselves recently by tying a stick of dynamite to a dog's tail and then lighting the same.

It is generally conceded that other cities need humane societies and that Columbus did well to purchase two automobiles at the beginning of the new year in order to hasten justice but for some unaccountable reason little interest is shown in the society already started here.

Now there are a good many reasons why a dog should not be blown to pieces—his great usefulness to even an unworthy master being one of these—and the dislike that all civilized beings are supposed to have for inflicting unnecessary pain upon any of God's creatures being another.

But if by chance any individual or group of individuals should be so degraded as to choose the form of amusement above mentioned should there not be some method of punishing the offenders?

Some of us have dogs that we cherish—dogs whose eyes look into ours with what seems akin to love and whose tails wag an affectionate greeting when we appear.

This sweet to hear the watchdog's honest bark bay deep-mouthed greeting as we draw near home, said one long gone. But the owner of the above mentioned animal can never look into his eyes again or smooth his furry head, because forsooth he has been sacrificed for the amusement of six or Newark's citizens.

It is time or is it not that Newark have a Humane Society with unqualified power to act?

Conserving Our Capital of Nerve Force.

AS we all know, nerve force is one of our most valuable physical possessions. It is really the foundation upon which our physical well-being rests. If our nerve force is depleted, we lack physical strength. We also lack mental efficiency. Upon these are built the various components that make up the sum total of health.

So to be most efficient, we should do all we can to increase or conserve our capital of nervous energy. And we may do this in some quite simple ways. The late Professor James, one of the country's foremost psychologists, says:

"The great thing in all education is to make our nervous system our ally instead of our enemy. It is to fund and capitalize our acquisitions, and live at ease upon the interest of the fund. For this, we must make automatic and habitual, as early as possible, as many useful actions as we can, and guard against the growing into ways that are likely to be disadvantageous to us, as we should guard against the plague. The more of the details of our daily life we can hand over to the effortless custody of our automatism, the more our higher powers of mind will be set free for their own proper work."

"There is no more miserable human being than one in whom nothing is habitual but indecision, and for whom every act, from arising in the morning until retiring at night, must be the subject of more or less deliberation. Such an one worries, and adds to the wear and tear on his body, mind and nervous system."

"Full half the time of such a man goes to the deciding or regretting of matters which ought to be so ingrained in him as practically not to exist for his consciousness at all."

There is a lot in this to think about. Even such simple things as making our toilet, we can learn to perform almost automatically, if we plan out an efficient routine, and then follow it until it becomes a habit. The same thing applies to many of the tasks of housekeeping. Indeed, the housekeeper is one who should try to save herself all possible in this way.

The first necessity is to plan. And one should so plan his work as to eliminate all unnecessary action. This will require some study. In the efforts that are now being put forth all over the country for efficiency, the story is told of a well-known engineering company who required the reading of twelve thermometers every two minutes. The man assigned to the task could rarely read eight of them in the two minutes. An expert took up the problem, and at first could do no better than the man he had superseded. The expert studied the most favorable position of the head and eyes for reading, eliminated all useless motions, and discovered that the twelve thermometers could be read in one minute and fifty seconds. The workman who previously had with difficulty read eight thermometers in two minutes, soon acquired the proper occupation habits and was enabled to read the twelve with perfect ease. His efficiency was increased forty per cent., and the task was rendered less exacting than before.

So, by carefully going over the processes of one's work, one can see where action can be curtailed or eliminated, until the most efficient method has been secured. Then this method can be persisted in until it becomes an automatic habit, and after that it will take care of itself; and a great amount of wear and tear on the nerve force will have been done away with.

But this is not all. Order and system are also essential. Every one knows the irritation caused by not being able to find an article when it is wanted. Half the good of learning to make the toilette automatically, for instance, is lost, if one has to stop and hunt for the toilet articles. A housekeeper may have reduced much of her work to automatic action, but if she has to run around and look for the dust-brush, or search for a dust-cloth, she'll quite upset her automatic habits.

And all this is worth while. It is a gain to be able to put these less important and material things under our feet. And it is a decided gain to increase our nerve energy, for thus we are fitted to handle the big things life brings us; and the finer and bigger the things we do in this world, the greater are the avenues we open for happiness to come to us.

Flint, Mich., Rheumatic Cure Attacks From Mt. Clemens. Fuss Has Made a Splendid Record in an Exceedingly Short Time.

Flint, Mich., is becoming famous as the home city of a new cure for rheumatism which has been used with such success as to attract attention from all over the country. The new medicine is called "Fuss". T. C. Millard, manufacturer of the remedy, when seen at his residence, 625 Harrison street at Flint, Mich., admitted that the new cure had made a great record in a short time.

"We have had patients come here from Mt. Clemens and other cities where they had failed to get relief," he said, "and the medicine has cured them. Fuss goes to the root of the disease. It operates upon every portion of the body. It dissolves and eliminates the poison from the system. It invigorates the muscles and imparts the stiffened joints. It acts upon the liver and kidneys, removing from them all irritants, restoring them to perfect health and regularity."

Among the large number of testimonials, Mr. Millard exhibited the following: C. K. Herndon, Marysville, Mo., says: "This may certify that I have taken Fuss for rheumatism and I believe it is the best remedy for this disease in the market today. I have been to Mt. Clemens three times and St. Louis once within the past 15 years, but did not receive much relief. Last October a friend told me to try Fuss. I have taken three bottles this winter and I am now 100 per cent better than I have been for fifteen years."

For sale in Newark by W. A. Eiman & Son, R. W. Smith and T. J. Evans, and all leading druggists or sent prepaid on receipt of $1.00 or six bottles for $5.00. Fuss Remedy Co., Flint, Mich.

WATTY SELLS HOLDINGS

A special from Indianapolis containing the announcement of W. H. Watkins' retirement from baseball, says he has already disposed of his holdings. The special says:

W. H. Watkins, owner of the Indianapolis club, announced his retirement from baseball Saturday.

It is learned on the best of authority that Mr. Watkins has sold his interest in the Indianapolis club, although he will probably remain there during the season, afterwards going to his farm in Michigan.

Mr. Watkins has been a noted character in baseball for the past thirty years.

ERIC PULLS OUT

Eric, Pa., Jan. 10.—Charles Martens and Jacob Roth, owners of the Erie baseball club, have signified their intention of quitting baseball and have placed the local club on the market. Local people will probably take the club over.

Billy Gilbert, former New York Giant, who managed here last season, has offers to take charge of amateur clubs at his home in New York and may not return here. He is now playing with McGraw's indoor team at Gotham.

COFFEY TO BENDERS

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 10.—Ottolander Eddie Coffey was sold back to the South Bend Club by Owner Varnell of the local team. Coffey, who is in the saloon business at South Bend, did not play last year.

OF COURSE THEY'D DENY IT

Youngstown, O., Jan. 10.—President Paul Powers of the Youngstown baseball club has denied that President Carson of the merged Central League had been secretly elected at the Cincinnati meeting last week. He declares the election of a president of the Central league will be held Jan. 17 at Grand Rapids, Mich. He says that President Carson will be elected without a doubt, but formal action has not been taken.

THEY ALL HAVE IT

Springfield, O., Jan. 10.—Manager Charles O'Day of the local Central League club, has taken up his work, and has announced the signing of Third Baseman George Stewart and Pitcher Benny Secor, both Toledo amateurs. The latter a left-hander and is said to have plenty of smoke.

BERT'S NEW PLAN

Grand Rapids, Jan. 10.—Bert Annis, owner of the local club, says his new ball park will be ready for the opening of the Central league season, though he has met unexpected difficulties in the matter of drainage. His expenditures will be in the neighborhood of $15,000 before the park is ready for use.

WALTER WANTS JOB

Mansfield, O., Jan. 10.—Walter East former Akron manager and a second baseman, who has been in the Eastern and Southern leagues for the past three years, is an applicant for the management of the local club of the proposed new Ohio State League. Jesse Tannehill, former big league pitcher, and Darby O'Brien, former manager of the Duluth club, are also candidates.

ZANESVILLE IS SHORT OF MONEY

Claimed That Schools May Close Six Weeks, Earlier as Result of Money Shortage.

Zanesville, Jan. 10.—Zanesville's parents were troubled today when it became known that the city schools would be compelled to close a month or six weeks earlier this spring, owing to a shortage of funds with which to operate the schools. The school board declared that it would need $127,000 to run the schools for the balance of the year. The actual cash that will be received is $95,787, or a cut of $31,212.58. The shortage of funds may be primarily placed to the operations of the Smith 1 per cent tax law. The tax duplicate was raised nearly one million dollar, and the tax receipts are far short of the amount required to meet the expenses of the various municipal departments.

SHORTAGE OF GAS SHUTS OFF ELECTRIC LIGHT

The municipal light plant was unable to furnish current for the street lights of the city Tuesday night, owing to the gas shortage. The gas supply of the plant was cut off in order to furnish all the pressure possible to residences for heating purposes. The lights of the South End and in Franklin's Addition may be out for a short time until the mercury bulbs for the oil tank on this circuit arrive.

LONG SESSION OF COMMITTEE

Financiers Work Seven Hours Tuesday Night Without Completing the Budget.

The finance committee of the city council, composed of Members Muenz, Dayton and Strassel, held a lengthy meeting last night. The committee met at 6:30 p. m., and it was nearly midnight before an adjournment was reached. This is the second meeting of this committee, and nothing has been given out up to this time, as the work of making up the budget has not been completed.

PAINT WITHOUT OIL

REMARKABLE DISCOVERY THAT CUTS DOWN THE COST OF PAINT SEVENTY-FIVE PER CENT.

A Free Trial Package is Mailed to Everyone Who Writes.

A. L. Rice, a prominent manufacturer of Adams, N. Y., has discovered a process of making a new kind of paint without the use of oil. He calls it "powderpaint." It comes in the form of a dry powder and all that is required is a cold water to make a paint of weather proof, fire proof and as durable as oil paint. It adheres to any surface, wood, stone or brick, spreads and looks like oil paint and costs about one-fourth as much.

NASHPORT MAN WANTS DAMAGES FOR LEAKY ROOF

Because his new roof leaked in eight places over the bed room, two over the sitting room, and three over the porch, J. D. Mosgrove of Nashport, believes he is entitled to damages amounting to $250 from M. P. Chapman, who put the roof on alleging that he was a first class man at that kind of work.

NOT ONE GRAIN OF QUININE IN THIS COMPOUND

The most severe cold will be broken, and all gripe misery ended after taking a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

You will distinctly feel all the disagreeable symptoms leaving after the very first dose.

The most miserable headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distress vanishes.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research is a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or gripe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or gripe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

MR. CONNOR WILL TALK TO BOYS

A. W. Connor of Indianapolis, who is at the head of a movement of a campaign of education of parenthood with a view of properly rearing the sons, is in the city for a series of addresses. He will speak tonight at the Central Church of Christ. The work is undenominational and has the approval and co-operation of the ministers in general and the educators. A meeting for boys only will be held at the church each afternoon after school and a lecture to the general public in the evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Pool Room Raided; Proprietor and Boys Before the Mayor

In accordance with Mayor Swartz's orders that the city ordinances prohibiting pool playing by minors or their presence in a pool room, the police raided the Cheney place on East Main street last night. A number of boys were found there and ordered to appear before the mayor this afternoon. Two boys under 18 years of age were turned over to the juvenile court officers.

Mayor Swartz, the proprietor off with a fine of $1 and costs and cautioned the boys against a repetition of the offense.

WAKE UP WITH A "DARK BROWN TASTE"?

Get Rid of It! Run for OLIVE TABLETS

There isn't the slightest need to wake up any morning with a "brown mouth." Ugh! No need to describe it. Dr. Edwards has made a "brown mouth" a thing of the past in thousands of homes with his little Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver and bowels, never has a dark brown taste, bad breath, a pimply face, constipation or any other form of bowel or liver disorder.

Take one just the moment you suspect you are constipated or that your liver is out of order.

Thousands take one at bedtime every night just to keep the bowels regular, the liver in order, the mouth clean and the breath pure and sweet. Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

WIVES CAN PRESERVE JOYS OF COURTSHIP.

("Aunt Ruth" in Woman's Realm.)
"Every married woman should pay the same attention to her personal appearance that she did in her sweetest days. Men admire well kept hair. Yours will be made bright, fluffy and beautifully lustrous by dry shampooing, which is far better than soap and water. Put a cupful of corn meal in a fruit jar, add the contents of a small onion, package of thorax, and shake well together. Just sprinkle a little on the head and brush thoroughly through the hair.

"Use face powder sparingly, if at all. To keep the skin soft and velvety and prevent growth of hair, gently massage the face, neck and arms with a solution made by dissolving an original package of magnesia in half a pint of witch hazel.

"Mothers often lose their good looks through worry. If you have 'croupy' children, or if they suffer from colds and catarrh use Mother's Salve. You should have it ready for accidents, anyhow, for it is a truly wonderful healer of cuts, burns, sores, sprains, pains and aches."

GIRL EVANGELIST IS A GOOD SPEAKER

Miss Margaret Bevan, the 18-year-old evangelist, who has been preaching for the past three days at Plymouth church, will hold her final service there this evening. She has proved herself a wonderful messenger and is gifted with extraordinary power. Her poetic descriptions, dramatic talent, comprehensive grasp and wisdom, again combined with extreme youthfulness, present a personality which is nothing short of prodigious. Every address that she has made has the accent and impressiveness of true genius and there is a passionate fervor and an air of intense reality about everything she says.

Every boy and girl in Newark should hear her. The public has had no parallel of such power since the early appearances of Joseph Hoffman, the distinguished pianist.
